

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

2 A low profile combination brush and scrubbing device used to clean tight fitting,
3 narrow, hard to reach windows on a motor vehicle. The device comprises a low profile body
4 with a cleaning surface, such as a sponge or cleaning pad attached on its top surface, and a 5 rubber blade attached along its front surface that extends downward in a direction opposite 6 the cleaning surface. Connected to the body is an articulating elongated pole. Disposed 7 between the body and the elongated pole is a rotating joint that enables the user to rotate the 8 body 180 degrees around the central axis of the elongated pole. Disposed between the body 9 and the elongated pole are first and second pivoting joints that allow the user to selectively 10 adjust the angular position of the pole and body so that the body may be placed against the 11 surface of both windows. The three joints work together to allow the user to easily adjust the 12 position of the elongated pole on the body so that the device may be used on tight fitting, 13 hard to reach surfaces of a vehicle.
